

What does having dementia feel like? Easy Read

Alzheimer's Society

Together we are help & hope
for everyone living with dementia

What does having dementia feel like?

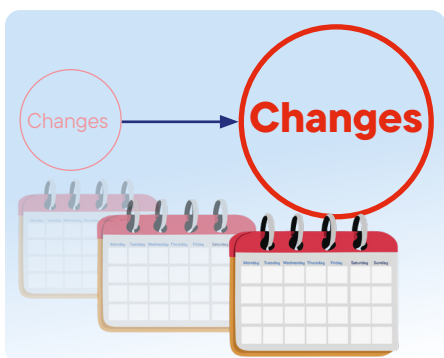

Dementia changes how you feel and how your body works.

These changes are called symptoms.

Everyone with dementia is different. You can have some symptoms but not all of them.

Changes might be small at first but they get worse over time.

Read this booklet to learn about dementia symptoms.

Forgetting things

Dementia can make you forget things more than normal.

Like forgetting people's names.

And getting lost in places you know well.

And finding it harder to do things like getting dressed or paying at the shop .

Tell your doctor if you are worried about your memory.

Problems with words

Dementia can make it hard to think of the right word.

Sometimes dementia can make you use the wrong word.

It can make it hard to understand what people are saying.

Tell your doctor if you find it harder to talk or understand.

Feeling different

Dementia can change how you feel.

It can make you feel sad, angry or worried.

It can make you stop enjoying things you usually like.

It can make you feel restless.

Tell your doctor if you feel different to normal.

Things that can help you

Let people know how you feel.
Ask for help if you need it.

Keep a diary of changes
you notice in yourself.

Look after your health.

Try to keep doing things you enjoy.

You can find more tips in our booklet
'Help when you have dementia'.

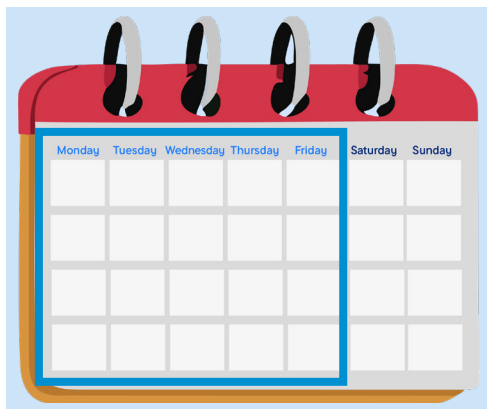

How we can help you

You can talk to someone on our support line.

Call 0333 150 3456

Monday to Friday: 9am-5pm

Saturday and Sunday: 10am-4pm

You can find more information on our website.

www.alzheimers.org.uk/get-support

Did this booklet help you?

Please let us know if you have questions or feedback about this information.

- Is it good or bad?
- Is anything missing?
- Is there anything you did not understand?

Phone 0333 150 3456

Email publications@alzheimers.org.uk

Website www.alzheimers.org.uk

ER3 What does having dementia feel like?
Reviewed April 2024
Next review April 2027

© Alzheimer's Society, 2024

Registered charity no. 296645. A company limited by guarantee and registered in England no. 2115499. Alzheimer's Society operates in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

